Simultaneously with Women's Demands Come These Gorgeous New Fall Styles

On the verge of another season, the long, season when personal and household expenditures come heaviest, we cannot refrain from a word about buying early. Market prices have advanced considerably since we made purchases for fall and winter. In fact, we bought very early and before it was known what turn the markets might take. We were fortunate; that is all. No, not all! Our customers who buy early will be equally as fortunate, for our prices on these purchases are based on what the goods cost us—not on present markets. But when these early purchases have been sold and we have to buy more on very much higher markets, then we will be compelled to get advanced prices. The advantages to you of buying early are so very clear and apparent that further suggestions seem trite.

Monday, the Initial Showing

Mme. Flanders'

Exclusive

New Fall Blouses

So much material cut by pattern, some trimmings and buttons, much or little workmanship—and it is a blouse! Yet it lacks that indefinable something which is the demarcation between the product of an artisan and that of an artist.

Blouses, Mme. Flanders' Blouses, are works of art; that much is clearly defined and quickly discernable. Those which will receive initial showing Monday are in the new suit shades of navy, brown, fawn, taupe, beige, Volga, Green, Cherry and marine—exclusive Georgettes in Russian blouse and peplum effects with yarn, silk and silver embroidery more or less elaborate.

As shown in first issue of Vogue for September, we are exclusive authorized dealers in Milgrim productions in Tulsa.

These finest garments are fashioned of tinselone, duvet de laine, duvetyne, silverstone, silverstone velour, wool velour, triacetate, serges and poiret twill in the autumnal shades—dragon fly, victory red, reindeer, taupe, oxfords, Mocha, navy and black.
